INITIATIVE

Inside the marvellous mind of Roald Dahl

We will show courage by exploring new techniques. We will make links between different artists and use our findings to create our own artwork. We will be creative and imaginative by considering different ways to present our work.

WOW!

Children will come into school dressed as their favourite Roald Dahl character. They will explore a range of his books. They will read snippets and watch parts of the films.

Charlie and the Chocolate Factory – They will design their own chocolate bar.

– Fantastic Mr Fox – They will solve a turkey, cider and apple Maths problem.

– The BFG – They will write a character description about one of the giants.

EXPERIENCE

This half term, we will be having a story telling expert come in to school to bring one of Roald Dahl's stories to life. We will be joining in with drama activities and creative writing to make the day enjoyable and memorable for all children. This will support children with their story telling and writing across the curriculum.

CREATE

We will create book covers in the style of Quentin Blake, using a range of media. We will also create a class moving book, where each child will design, make and evaluate their own page. Each page will have a moving mechanism that will bring the story to life.

We will be determined and resilient when we find things difficult and not give up. We will reflect on our learning after each lesson and seek help when needed. We will reflect on our work and celebrate our success and achievements.

We will be inquisitive and curious by asking questions and sharing ideas so that we are active in our own learning. We will show enthusiastic when completing our work and engage in all activities. We will be resourceful by using our equipment and time effectively.

SMSC and British Values

- Democracy– We will have the right to voice our own opinions and the opinions of others.
- Individual liberty– We will have the right to choose our own ideas and the way we want to express them.
